

I am very much opposed to attempts by the CBA to weaken the Indiana 'Do Not Call' list. The fact that I have a checking account with a bank doesn't mean that I want to listen to their telephone solicitations in an attempt to sell me junk that I'm not at all interested in buying. There is no reason to have a 'do not call' list if the FCC is going to make exceptions and let business' ignore it.

Thank you.